Judge orders junkyards moved from right-of-way

By ELLIS CUEVAS
Chancery Court action in Bay St. Louis Friday ordering removal of junked vehicles from 'within 1,000 feet' of the US-90 right-of-way drew praises Saturday from the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce.
Chancery Judge William Stewart Friday ordered removal of scrap vehicles and enforcement of the state's 'Junkyard Control Law' against two US-90 businesses.
Super Star Enterprises Corporation owners Henry (Buck) Marquar and Ray Spinks have been given 60 days to remove junked and dismantled vehicles from within 1,000 feet of the US-90 right-of-way.
The ruling was issued in connection with a complaint filed by Attorney General Bill Allain on behalf of the Mississippi Highway Commission.

Attorney Michael D. Haas of Bay St. Louis also represented the Highway Department in the action against Marquar and Spinks.

"This court action culminates years of effort on the part of the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce and its beautification committee chairmen to eliminate unsightliness in that area," said Chamber President Wayne Ducomb Jr.
"I'm happy to hear the State Highway Department has been successful in efforts to help improve the appearance of our west entrance to coastal beaches, Hancock County, Buccannear State Park and the cities of Waveland and Bay St. Louis," Ducomb stated Saturday.

approximately 50 feet to his East property line at least six feet in height and in such a manner that junk or dismantled or wrecked automobiles or parts thereof will not be visible from (the highway), and will not stack or permit stacking of same...."

"The court said Spiers must also 'remove all junked or dismantled or wrecked automobiles or parts thereof on that property of his located North of US-90 and West of his garage and defendant will only allow operational vehicles to be placed in said area...."

Spiers must also remove vehicles from voting precinct property after the county constructs a barrier to prevent vehicles from using the precinct property for joy riding, the court indicated.
Marquar filed a paper Aug. 21 with the Chancery Clerk's office, stating, "...I Henry S. Marquar, do deny...detest...and believe that the State has no case against me do (sic) to

CHAMBER BOARD

Harry Gilmore, administrator of Hancock General Hospital, will address the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the chamber office, US-90, Bay St. Louis.

MEET THE TEAM

The Bay High Booster Club will conduct a meet the team night Tuesday at 7 p.m. at Tiger Stadium. The senior and junior high school football squads will be introduced at this time. The concession stand will be open.

A Bill of Complaint against Mrs. Edith Dantagnan, Bay St. Louis real estate agent and owner of property adjacent to Super Star, was dropped by the judge.

Stewart's final decree stated, "...the defendant, Mrs. Edith Dantagnan, is not a participant in the operations of the aforesaid automobile graveyard but was made a party Defendant to this suit solely by reason of the fact that she is the owner of the property upon which said automobile graveyard encroaches...and said defendant has informed the Court that she did not give permission for the placement of junk automobiles on her property and also desires that same be removed therefrom...."

A February study by surveyor Lucius A. Marks III revealed approximately 110 dismantled and junked vehicles on her property.

Spiers, owner of Hayward Spiers Auto Repairs on US-90 at Bayou Phillips Road, also maintains automobile junk yards on the north and south sides of the highway near his garage.

He was ordered to remove vehicles from one portion of his operation and to construct a fence at another area.

However, the decree noted further that Spiers "...appeared before the Court in person and advised the Court he fully understood the proceedings and desired to comply with the Junkyard Control Law...."

Spiers was ordered to construct a fence at his repair business and remove the junked vehicles across the highway.

The decree said, "...That within 60 days from the date of this decree the defendant is hereby ordered to construct and maintain an attractive solid metal fence from a point adjacent to his garage located on the North side of United States Highway 90 East ap-

HNC sports on probation

By RICH ADAMS

Sports Editor

The Hancock North Central football and basketball teams have been banned from participating in any championship games until Nov. 29 because an HNC baseball player allegedly shoved an umpire during a game in April, according to Dr. Woodrow Marsh of the High School Activity Association in Jackson.

Marsh said Friday that a baseball player "shoved a home plate umpire and threatened bodily harm" during an argument at second base on April 21. Marsh, executive secretary and director of activities with the State

Activities Association, said the football and basketball teams will not be able to participate in championship play until after Nov. 29.

"This will extend into the basketball season. It is unfortunate that all sports have to suffer because of one incident," Walsh said.

Marsh said an HNC baseball player began arguing with the second base umpire during a game at East Central, and after throwing his helmet to the ground, the ballplayer began arguing with homeplate umpire Richard Greer. "The ballplayer then shoved the home plate umpire and threatened to do

Marriage weekend

Close encounter of a loving kind

(EDITOR'S NOTE—Staff Reporter Rich Adams and his wife Anita last weekend participated in a Marriage Encounter weekend, a self-supporting program held in conjunction with the Catholic Church, at the University of Southern Mississippi Gulf Park Campus in Long Beach. The following is a report of their feelings at the end of the three-day program, during which they spent time alone together and in group sessions with other participants.)

By RICH and ANITA ADAMS

After only two short years of marriage, we had begun to settle into a routine at home. Both of us were working every day of the week and we had started to lose touch with each other's feelings.

We had become 'married singles,' sometimes spending hours in the same room watching television and reading, but never really noticing or talking to each other.

To put it simply, we had run out of things to talk about, things to do, and we had stopped listening to what each other was saying.

We signed up for the August Marriage Encounter not knowing what to expect. The name gives the impression of some type of group encounter session presided over by unemotional marriage counselors. Instead, however, we found ourselves

Board locates five classrooms

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

The Hancock County School Board met in special session Saturday morning to approve leasing portable classrooms to alleviate a classroom shortage at Hancock North Central High School.

Superintendent of Education Billy D. Sills explained the local school district will initially lease five portable classrooms from the Jackson County School District at $1 per year for three years with an option to purchase the trailers for $1 each at the end of the three-year period.

Board President Woodrow Ladner said the Hancock school district would be required to pay all expenses to move the 20 by 30-foot buildings from Jackson County.

Sills also reported the lease agreement would stipulate "if a natural disaster strikes Jackson County and that school district needs the buildings, the Hancock County district will have to

Channel shoaling causes ship traffic bottleneck

By RICH ADAMS

A river pilot for Atlas Powder Company, an explosives export firm with a facility located at Hancock County's Port Blenville Industrial Park, called a shoaling problem at the mouth of the main park channel 'hazardous.'

Captain Donald Demetz told the Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission he has had a number of 'hair-raising experiences' negotiating barges through the partly blocked channel, adding one ship was temporarily grounded in the channel and blocked marine traffic.

"The (U.S. Army) Corps of Engineers did not conduct soundings on the worst part of the channel. On the small channel, I have to go within five feet of shore to get through," Demetz explained.

"All this is done in optimum conditions, with high tide and no wind or current. It will be worse in the winter," he continued.

"This is a very serious problem. The explosives pose no hazard, but getting grounded in the channel and blocking traffic is dangerous," Demetz added. C.E. (Chuck) Blackwell, the manager of technical service at Atlas Powder International Ltd. at Port Blenville said the U.S. Coast Guard could shut the channel down.

"That would put us out of business," Blackwell said Thursday.

Commission Executive Director Wilson Webre stressed to the commission that immediate action is necessary in order to keep the industrial park open.

It is not our fault this problem materialized. Due to the shoaling problem, a barge recently got hung up at the main entrance to the park," Webre told the commission.

"The shoaling is now worsening. We suspect this was caused by spring floods. The period for applying for state emergency funds has expired," Webre explained.

The port director then quoted from the 1945 River and Harbor Act, Section Three, which requires the Corps of Engineers to, "as an emergency measure, clear up obstacles...to port vessels and provide immediate access...."

"Atlas should right now begin collecting data on the size and number of ships and the potential hazards the shoaling could cause," Webre told the Atlas International representatives.

"My suggestion is that the commission adopt a resolution requesting the Corps to proceed and clear up the junctions of the East Pearl River and the Port Blenville Channel and the main channel at Cross Bayou," he continued.

"All the shippers at the park can assist by pumping the Corps with data. This may cut some of the red tape, and save time, cost, and cut down on ecological difficulties," Webre explained.

Commissioner Dave McDonald asked what site will be used as a spoils site. Webre said Spills Site No. Five. SPOILS—Page 6A main entrance to Port Blenville Industrial Park. Shoaling caused by spring flooding has made the channels difficult to travel, according to Blackwell and Demetz. The commission has requested the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers dredge the waterways immediately. (Staff photo—Rich Adams) involved in an experience which brought us closer together than ever before, opened new channels of communication, and gave us the desire to offer unselfish love to each other.

Instead of Marriage Encounter, the "44-hour crash course in a new technique of communication" should perhaps be called couple power, or how to have a second honeymoon for the rest of your life.

Instead of unemotional professionals, the encounter was led by three team-couples who had earlier "made a weekend" and wanted to share their experiences with the rest of us.

A Catholic priest who had also made a weekend to re-examine his relationship with his "spouse", the church, also shared his reflections with the group.

Although there were some 20 couples at the weekend from the Mississippi Gulf Coast, north Mississippi, and Louisiana, we never did socialize very much the three days we were at the encounter.

Instead we focused in on each other for 44 wonderful hours, experiencing love, honesty, some emotional pain, but most of all an understanding of each other's deep feelings.

We experienced a timeless, jobless, childless and worryless 44 hours from

Friday night until late Sunday afternoon, asking questions of and sharing emotions we had earlier been afraid to share, and getting to know the inner feelings of the person with whom we had decided to spend the rest of our lives.

The experience was undoubtedly different for each couple, but the effect the weekend had made on each pair was visible by Sunday afternoon. The room overflowed with love.

Some husbands Friday admitted they were "dragged" to the weekend by their wives, but later expressed a feeling of gratitude for what the encounter had done to their relationships with their spouses.

We left the encounter feeling giddy, as if we had just met and were anxious to go on a first date.

We did not realize it until we had gotten about half-way to our house in Bay St. Louis, but we had not stopped talking to each other since we had awakened Sunday morning.

The talk was not just surface talk about what went on at work that day, but rather deep discussion about what the weekend meant and what we had yet to do to improve our relationship.

We are not sure how long the new awareness of each other will last. We have the silent support and prayer of past encounter couples, and are looking forward to a "rookie reunion" in September, at which all the couples and the team-leader couples will meet at USM Gulf Park to reflect on the weekend.

We discovered that marriage does not have to be a routine, dull lifestyle spent in front of the television after work, but can be a lifetime experience of loving and caring.

We also learned that activities outside the home are not necessary to make life with each other enjoyable. We had been looking for love in these activities when all that we needed was each other.

The team-couples said Sunday afternoon that September's Marriage Encounter may not be conducted because not enough couples have signed up for the session.

For information on the program call Pete and Ruby Chapman at 467-4051 or call the Catholic Family Life Center Office in Long Beach at 863-1866.

EPA lab closed

By RICH ADAMS

The Environmental Protection Agency's Survey and Analysis Laboratory located at the National Space Technology Laboratories in Hancock County has been temporarily shut down for safety repairs, according to a spokesman in Washington, D.C.

Linda Wastler, a special assistant to the division director of planning and implementation at EPA in Washington said Wednesday the Hancock County lab will be closed for an undetermined amount of time for installation of new equipment and safety devices.

"A few months ago we noted some potentially bad safety problems. We at first decided to keep part of the lab open while we completed renovations, but then, because of the important nature of work at the lab, decided it was impossible to keep it open," Wastler said.

"The staff at the NSTL laboratory is unique in the world in that it handles high priority pollutants. We want to keep that staff together," she continued.

"In most labs, there is an acceptable risk factor. We wanted to eliminate any acceptable risk at the NSTL laboratory and make it risk-free," Wastler explained.

"The lab is run by experts and is so unique that we want to make sure conditions are perfect," she added.

Wastler said a dioxin testing lab was closed "weeks ago," and added the rest of the facility, located in Building 1100 at NSTL, was shut down more recently.

She said some projects in which the Hancock County laboratory is involved include establishing effluent waste guidelines and researching the effects of pesticides and toxic substances.

"Some of the things these people do are not just a Sunday tea party," Wastler said.

"Although it is hurting the laboratory's output, we shut it down so we could correct all the possible safety violations," she continued.

"We not only want to be able to pass the Occupational Safety Health Act (OSHA) inspection, we want to pass the John Hopkins inspection, which is the most stringent in the world," Wastler explained.

"We will be installing more modern equipment, better fumigation hoods, adding more safety equipment," she added.

Wastler could not estimate how long the laboratory will remain closed.

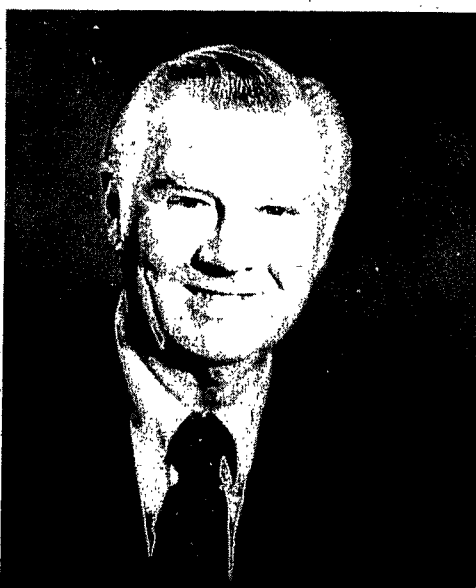

"I would say it will reopen within three weeks. For government work, it is going along lickety-split," Wastler commented.

Gulfside eyed for extension

Rust College at Holly Springs recently completed a feasibility study on the possibility of offering continuing education classes in the Gulf Coast Area.

According to Eddie L. Smith, Jr., Director of Institutional Research and Federal Relations, "the study showed that there is a definite need for courses in business and education in the area."

Rust College, an affiliate of the United Methodist Church, has been interested in helping people continue their educational aspirations for more than 100 years. It is through the joint efforts of the United Methodist Church, Gulfside Assembly, and Rust College that services will be rendered to the area residents.

ARCHAEOLOGY AND BOOK OF MORMON will be the topic of Paul R. Chessman of Baton Rouge at a special public appearance at 7:30 p.m. Saturday at Waveland Branch, Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, corner of McLaurin Street and Nicholson Avenue. Chessman, author, lecturer and international traveler, is currently president of the Baton Rouge and Louisiana Missionary Program of the Mormon Church. He will display artifacts from archaeological digs in which he has participated in South and Central America and Mexico, as well as films from the digs which purport to prove aspects of the Book of Mormon. Daniel Sones and Bernard Ramakis, Waveland Branch president and mission leader, respectively, said the public is invited. There is no charge for admission.

Book parts are key to quick information

EDITOR'S NOTE: Brother William McCue, SC of Catholic High School in Baton Rouge, La. and former librarian at St. Stanislaus High School in Bay St. Louis has compiled the following guidelines to the parts of a book to facilitate quick access to information. We hope Brother McCue's article will be useful to students and research workers.

HOW TO GET INFORMATION QUICKLY

By Brother Wm. McCue

To find information in books quickly and wisely, it is necessary to know about the printed parts of a book and their arrangement. The parts explained here are given in the order in which they usually appear. However, not all books have all the parts mentioned.

TITLE PAGE. It is the right hand page near the front of the volume which contains the name of the book (title), the author, the publisher, and the place of publication.

Sometimes there is a subtitle (printed directly beneath the title) which is added to give a better idea of the scope of the book.

Further information about the author is also sometimes given. This is especially important in books on scientific or historical subjects, as it helps to show whether the author is a prominent authority on the subject.

The publisher's name and the date and place of publication are given at the bottom of the title page.

COPYRIGHT. The date on the title page merely indicates when the book was printed. The date on the reverse side is much more important, as it indicates when the book was actually copyrighted, and this usually is the date the book was completed.

DEDICATION. It is just the author's way of showing gratitude to, or affection for, someone or something.

PREFACE. Some authors or editors use the term foreword or introduction instead of preface. In general the three terms are synonymous. It usually tells for whom the book is intended, what the aims of the book are, and how to use it. Sometimes it acknowledges help the author received in writing it, or includes general remarks about the subject.

CONTENTS. The table of contents is always in the front of the book and lists the chapters or units or articles in the order in which they appear.

LISTS OF MAPS AND ILLUSTRATIONS. History and geography books very often include a list of the maps and charts used. Novels and books of scientific or artistic nature frequently contain lists of the illustrations used.

BODY OF THE BOOK. The body is the main part of the book; it is sometimes called the text.

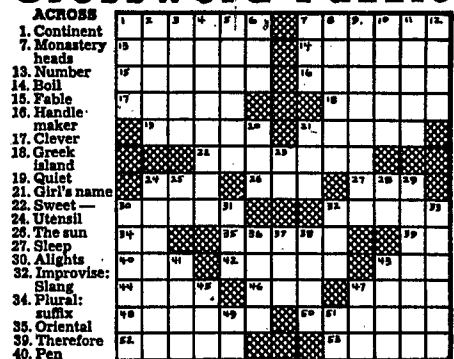

BIBLIOGRAPHY. Instead of the word bibliography some authors use the term reference list or authorities or reading, but in this connection they all refer to a list of books and articles on a particular subject. Sometimes the list is intended to suggest material for further study and sometimes to indicate what books the author used in gathering some of his information.

INDEX. The index is usually found on the last few pages of the book. To understand any index, it is important to read the key which is found at the top of the first page of the index. In sets of books, the index is usually found in the last volume. Sometimes each volume has its own index, and sometimes both methods are used.

APPENDIX. Found near the back of the book, this is material that is not really part of the text, but which is closely related to it.

GLOSSARY AND VOCABULARY. Books written in foreign languages, in old forms of English, in dialect, or in scientific language peculiar to the subject of the book, often contain vocabularies or glossaries which resemble small dictionaries.

Tuesday will be a good night for all Bay High supporters to meet their team at Tiger stadium. The Tiger Booster club will have all the senior and junior high players and coaches out for everyone to meet. The event will start at 7 p.m. Tuesday and we understand the Tiger Boosters will also be signing up memberships for those interested in really supporting the Tigers this coming year. A fine example of some of the support given Bay High by the Tiger Booster Club is the very nice field house at the stadium. We hope all of you will come by and give the Tigers a big boost for the coming season.

It is amazing how the crowds have flocked to our Hospitality Station off I-10 in Hancock County. There were many of us who felt that having to drive off the Interstate would adversely affect use of the most modern facility in Mississippi for tourists. With the local hospitality station setting records in the number of persons visiting, it is hard to believe there is any difficulty with the exit. Of course, we know that Lillian Dillard and her staff are doing a tremendous job in making our visitors welcome. The landscaping around the facility is something else, and those persons responsible should be commended. We know there must be some residents of the county who have not yet taken the time to stop at the facility, and if so, we hope they will visit it soon and see for themselves just how nice it really is and the type of welcome visitors receive.

Senator Thad Cochran

SPECIAL REPORT:

The Libyan Case

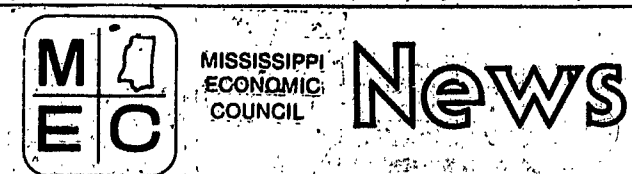

Controversy is developing over the Senate's investigation of the facts surrounding Billy Carter's relationship with Libya and the U.S. Department of Justice. Like most Americans, I thought at first that this could not amount to much and that the media people were probably overdoing the coverage of it. Now, I am not so sure. That is the reason for the investigation. It was a sure thing that the entire story had been told, then there would be no need for the Senate to conduct its inquiry. Another problem that is involved is whether or not the Attorney General and the Department of Justice have acted in accordance with the law. The Judiciary Committee has jurisdiction over the Department and has a duty to see that it carries out the law fairly and diligently. I am completely satisfied that the Senate has done the right thing in directing, unanimously, that the investigation be undertaken. It has been turned over to a committee of competent members who seem dedicated to pursuing the truth wherever that effort may lead. What we do not want to happen is for the investigation to be turned into a political witch hunt or be conducted in a circus atmosphere. Another concern of mine as this process unfolds is the possibility of dragging the matter out too long and spending large sums of money unnecessarily. I think that is why the order creating the committee requires a report to be made to the Senate by October 4. This will give all of us an opportunity to review the findings and decide if anything further needs to be done. It is important to know all the facts when serious allegations of obstruction of justice, failure to comply with foreign agent registration laws, and questionable payments of money are made that could involve White House officials and the Department of Justice. The sensitive and complicated nature of the inquiry requires the appointment of the skilled and experienced counsel who the public will recognize as being well-qualified for the job. I am confident that requirement of a successful investigation has been met. The committee should also realize that the interests of the American people will be served only if the truth is pursued without regard to partisan or selfish political considerations. Senator Charles Mathias, of Maryland said it well the day the committee was organized when he observed that the investigation could alter the course of history; it could affect the outcome of the national elections this November. If the committee was too aggressive it could create undesired sympathy for those who were targets of the investigation and if it was not aggressive enough it could be considered a whitewash that did not clear anyone's name. My strong hope is that when all of this is over the American people will conclude that this challenge has been met and that justice has been done.

POTENTIAL IS THERE
A 1979 study by the U.S. Department of Commerce reveals that Mississippi is on the verge of a dramatic increase in waterborne commerce. Shipments through Mississippi ports, according to the study, are expected to increase to 47.9 million tons by the year 2000, almost four times the 1970 level of 12.6 million tons. But, is Mississippi ready to capitalize on this potential windfall? Can our present port facilities handle such dramatic increases in commerce? According to the Commerce Department report, Mississippi's facilities are inadequate for these increases. Of the 17 states examined in the study, Mississippi ranked third in the number of new port facilities needed. Mississippians need to look closely at this potential waterway boom and consider the positive economic factors which result from development of ports and harbors, including reduction in transportation costs, the development of unused natural resources, and increases in job opportunities resulting from waterway and related land development.

Health Tip

From the American Medical Association

Skin Diving Safety Code Can Save Lives

Skin diving enthusiasts are gaining thousands of new recruits each summer. Americans of all ages and both sexes are spending summer weekends exploring lakes and streams from the vantage point of the fishes.

From the medical standpoint, physicians say that diving makes demands on the body which are unlike those met above the surface.

Navigating under water is heavy exertion. Those with respiratory problems or heart and blood vessel disease should not attempt it, the American Medical Association reminds. Diving is ruled out for those with perforated ear drums. Ear plugs are for surface swimming only and should not be used for diving because of water pressure.

Asking your doctor to evaluate your fitness for diving is a precaution that will pay dividends. Along with good health, the potential diver should be a better than average swimmer.

Never dive alone. Use a buddy system and be certain that your buddy is competent and trustworthy. Learn to use artificial respiration and see that your buddy knows. Plan your dives. Know where you are going, how deep and how long you can stay under. Work out a system of underwater communication signals. Never dive when you are overly tired or not feeling well.

Use quick release buckles on weight belts and scuba harness. You may need to surface quickly. Watch out for boats. The power boat skipper may not know you're there.

Watch your depth. Pressures mount rapidly as you descend. Don't hold your breath while ascending. Air will expand inside your lungs, and should be allowed to bubble out as you are coming up.

The Bottom Line

Candid Answers To Your Questions About Advertising and Business Topics.

By S. GALE DENLEY
Associate Professor of Journalism
University of Mississippi

A reader sends an ad from a newspaper—"Five Men Made Mistakes..."

1) One man struck a match to see if his gas tank was empty. It wasn't.
2) One man patted a strange bulldog on the head to see if it was affectionate. It wasn't.
3) One man sped to see if he could beat the train to the crossing. He couldn't.
4) One man touched an electric wire to see if it was charged. It was.
5) One man cut out his advertising to see if he could save money. He couldn't.

Who pays for this kind of ad? Dear WP: The pointed message was sponsored by the newspaper in which it appeared. But like all advertising it will hopefully and ultimately be paid for by profits from business it may help generate.

Such messages are frequently used by newspaper publishers to promote their medium to businessmen. Almost all have a selection of these house ads to publish when space is available and many schedule the ads regularly along with the paid ads.

The messages are proof that the publisher believes in his medium, for the space could be filled for less cost. But he, as all businessmen, expects an eventual profit.

So to answer your question, this ad, if it sells, will—like all effective ads—pay for itself.

Any businessman can and should take time to put together sales messages addressed to prospective customers. If the ads feature merchandise in current demand and at reasonable prices, they will more than pay for themselves in sales.

A philosopher once compared advertising to fishing. He said the bait was advertising, and as such, necessary for success.

We have no argument with the analogy, but it really falls short. For expended fish bait has no residual effect whether it worked or not. You can go back to where you have fished before, but only a true optimist would expect his previous bait to have lured and kept fish in the area.

But the residual effect of advertising can be quite strong. Several weeks ago a lady reader said she went to a nearby city looking for a cooking spice a store there had featured in an ad when she was a college student 20 years before. She had needed the spice several times through the years and thought about the ad each time—but only 20 years later did she go to the store. And they had the spice she wanted.

I gave the local paper some clicks on my new lines and offered to pay them one half the regular price to run them whenever they had some extra space. What do you think? Wheeler Dealer.

Dear WD: I think you will be running full price ads at the end of the season to try to sell your out of season lines at half price. The time to promote is just before and during the period of peak demand. Late advertising is like tickets to yesterday's ball game—it looks the same, but it's not good for much.

Office of Bill Allain,

COUPON BOOK SALES: BARGAIN OR RIP-OFF?
For the past year, coupon book sales have been on the increase in Mississippi.

According to Attorney General Bill Allain, this is an area where consumers should be extremely wary.

Contrary to popular belief most coupon book sales are not the direct results of the efforts of any local businesses or civic organization, even though a local business or organization may reap a small amount of the profit derived from the coupon book sales venture.

Most coupon book sales are initiated and conducted by professional promoters, usually from out-of-state who convince a local business or civic organization to endorse the sale of the coupon books, thereby attempting to add credibility to the venture.

Once an endorsement is obtained, the professional promoters will then set up a "boiler room" operation, where several telephone solicitors will call almost everyone listed in the local telephone book, in an attempt to sell them a coupon book.

They (the telephone solicitors) will usually tell prospective purchasers that they are representing the local business or organization that has sponsored them.

Usually the prospective purchaser is told that the value of the coupon book is $500 to $1,000, but since this offering is for promotional purposes, the book can be purchased for $25 to $30.

Is the coupon book a bargain? To some, the book may well be worth the investment, while to others the book may be a very poor investment indeed.

For example, a senior citizen who purchases a coupon book may discover that many coupons contained in the book are of little or no value.

Example: one free round of miniature golf, free visit to a health spa, free lesson at a karate school, one free game at a bowling alley, free visit to a figure salon, free admission to various places of entertainment located in distant cities, etc.

Many coupons offer free goods or services which are free from the merchant anyway. Also, many coupon books contain coupons that provide a free lunch or sandwich, with the purchase of a lunch or sandwich of equal value.

This is the "buy one, get one free" situation. If the restaurant is not located near your home or place of employment, you may discover that the expense involved in traveling to and from the restaurant, far exceeds the benefit of the coupon.

In many cases, the local merchants who participate in honoring the coupons are not made aware of the large number of coupon books that will be sold.

Example: a merchant who agrees to provide a free one dollar item, and allows six coupons to be placed in each book to be sold may discover that this advertisement has actually cost him $30,000. Is this advertisement really worth that much money?

Anyone interested in purchasing a coupon book should review the contents of the book very carefully before handing their hard earned money over to a stranger.

County school patron questions board plans

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

A Hancock County School District patron appeared at a Wednesday night board meeting questioning several aspects of the system's educational program.

Laura Peterson of Bayou LaCroix Road said her children are enrolled at Gulfview Elementary School in Lakeshore and reported her son would be attending the fifth grade at the recently renovated Clermont Harbor School.

"What are you going to do about lunches for the fifth graders at Clermont Harbor," she asked the board.

Superintendent of Education Billy D. Sills replied, "We will either cater to the school or transfer the children to Gulfview for lunch."

Board President Woodrow Ladner added, "Those children will have breakfast at Gulfview before they are transferred to Clermont Harbor."

The school patron reported her son attends learning disability classes and asked how he could still receive this instruction.

Sills replied that children requiring special classes would be transported to Gulfview.

Peterson was concerned about the busses to Clermont Harbor crossing the railroad tracks located between the two schools.

Board member Oris Ladner stated, "We're going to end up with kids getting killed by running busses across those railroad tracks."

Woodrow Ladner said, "We have competent bus drivers."

Oris Ladner reiterated his concern over busses crossing the railroad tracks.

Peterson asked if football is to be eliminated in the fifth and sixth grades.

Sills reported, "Yes mam, it's a direct violation of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools' accreditation requirements."

Peterson asked, "Would more time be lost by sending these fifth graders to Hancock North Central Elementary School?"

Woodrow Ladner replied, "We wouldn't have classroom space."

The school patron stated, "I know conditions are bad in all the county schools. What are you going to do about it?"

Woodrow Ladner said, "We're working on improving the schools right now."

Peterson stated, "So income off gas and oil mineral leases hasn't helped that much at all."

Woodrow Ladner reported the school district utilized the mineral lease funds to repair roofs, and improve the HNC cafeteria and rest rooms.

Peterson replied, "My children haven't attended HNC."

Woodrow Ladner said, "We spent $82,000 at Gulfview before the tornado hit this spring."

The school patron replied, "I haven't seen the improvements."

Woodrow Ladner explained that at Gulfview drop ceilings were installed in classrooms and interior walls were painted, and a dressing room was built for the gymnasium.

Sills said the district has submitted a long-range building plan to the State Educational Finance Commission for approval.

Peterson replied, "We can have all the buildings we need, but we need better qualified teachers."

However, the school patron commended Sills for providing certain school books at the beginning of the year.

"This year I was shocked because the books came in before the kids started school. This is the first year it's ever happened," she explained.

"If you (Sills) are responsible, thank you," the school patron added.

She also suggested, "If somebody could build a centrally located school it would be easier on the kids."

"I think the bond issues for a new school haven't passed because of the oil money the school district has received," Peterson explained.

Board member Louie Ladner reported, "Before the last bond issue vote we had eight or 10 people show up for a hearing."

Woodrow Ladner added, "We had five or six people attend hearings at Charles B. Murphy Elementary School at Pearlington and maybe 15 at Gulfview."

Peterson stated, "We need to come together in Hancock County for our kids."

"I was really thrilled to hear the California Achievement Tests would be given to our children. If you have kids in the first grade not being taught correctly, those children will be hurting," she stated.

Woodrow Ladner reported, "The only problem with those tests is the national average is so low our children all score high on these tests."

Peterson replied, "The only thing my children got above the national average when they attended North Bay Elementary School was in English. The Gulfview students scored even lower."

Woodrow Ladner explained, "It's pretty hard to accomplish something when things have been done the same way for years and years."

Sills stated, "Some of the things we're talking about should be handled by our principals and the superintendent."

In other business at the 6 p.m. meeting in the Dan Russell Sr. Memorial Youth Court Building in Bay St. Louis, the board:

—Abolished a policy requiring a deadline for teachers to submit resignations;

—Recinded a motion from a previous meeting accepting the resignation of teacher Susan Buckley; —Authorized bid advertisement for a micro-fish readout machine for HNC High School. Sills said the machine would eliminate a record storage problem at the school;

—Authorized an $8,000 payment of a $9,027 bill from R&S Contractors of Pass Christian for HNC band hall repairs as recommended by District Architect John Mykolyk;

—Authorized a $25,980 payment to Bay Contractors of Diamondhead for repairs at the HNC assistant principal's —Heard a report from Sills that he would discuss replacement of the air conditioner at the Silver Creek School with building owner Junior Mitchell of Kiln;

—Heard a report from Sills that Weaver and Sons, Inc. of Gulfport would prepare an estimate for installing sewerage pumps at Gulfview;

—Heard a report from board member Monvel Cuevas that the grass needed cutting at HNC. Sills said he would have the grass cut the next day;

—Discussed the district's bussing policy.

located at the junction of the main channel and Cross Bayou, would be ideal.

"Jim Kelly owns this site near the junction. Vic Frankiewicz (Mississippi Bureau of Marine Resources employee) says he doesn't think we will be able to use this site because of ecological impact, and said he thinks we will have to go upland," Webre said.

McDonald said the wildlife conservation agencies have "tied up past projects with their humbug" and added "anyone with a brain should realize this is the ideal site for this project. It is the fastest and cheapest route."

Commissioner Ronald Artigues moved that the port body request the Corps of Engineers to take immediate action under the River and Harbors Act and clear the channels.

The motion was seconded by Fred Curet and approved unanimously by the commission.

Record enrollment expected at PRC

Dr. Willis Lott, PRC director of admissions is predicting Pearl River will have another record enrollment in the fall of 1980.

"We're really pleased with how things are turning out," Lott said, "all indicators point to a 10 to 15 percent over last year's record."

At the present time all dormitory rooms for male and female students have been filled and a waiting list has been prepared and applications for enrollment are pouring in each day.

"Of course, we don't know how many students will decide not to attend at the last minute, but we are very optimistic at this time," Lott said.

The Wildcat's annual press day is set for Saturday, Aug. 23 beginning at 10 a.m. in the Doble Holden Stadium.

"We're really looking forward to registration," said Willis Lott, director of admissions, "all indications are that we're going to have another record enrollment, and man-that pleases everyone."

The entire school will observe Labor Day Holidays,

Monday, Sept. 1, however, regular classes will resume Tuesday, Sept. 2.

Pearl River's first football game will be on the road against Mississippi Delta, Thursday, Sept. 4. The home opener is against Jones, Saturday Sept. 13 in the Doble Holden Stadium.

Registration for sophomores will be held in the PRC Academic Building beginning Monday Aug. 25. Freshman, transfer and former students will begin registration Monday afternoon at 1 p.m. and continue through Tuesday, Aug. 26.

"Registration is a very important aspect of getting off to a good year," Lott said, "and it is necessary that we have a registration schedule to insure an orderly and fair registration system."

Lott said for this reason students must register according to the published alphabetical listing.

"We realize many of our students work and or commute with other students, but we will not be able to accommodate students who wish to register early," he said.

A student may register after their scheduled time but, not prior to the individuals time.

Registration will close at 2 p.m. Tuesday, Aug. 26. Classes will begin Wednesday, Aug. 27 at 8:15 a.m. and late registration starts at 8:30 a.m. Wednesday.

A student may change schedule through Wednesday, Sept. 10.

return all trailers the following summer.

HNC High School Principal Donald Hillman said at a school board meeting last month that four portable classrooms were needed to solve a classroom shortage at that school.

Sills stated Saturday the fifth trailer will house students in the recent board-approved in-school student suspension program.

The board also authorized Sills to hire personnel to undertake the trailer move at $8 per hour, procure all necessary insurance, obtain proper permits and ask the County Sheriff's Department to provide an escort during the move.

Ladner reported, "We looked at the trailers and they are all in good shape."

The school board president explained the trailers were used by the Jackson County School district after Hurricane Frederick destroyed several school buildings in that area last year.

"About three weeks ago board member Louie Ladner and I met Jackson County Superintendent of Education Jimmy Smithie at a 16th Section land seminar in Gulfport and he told us in conversation that his district was no longer using the trailers," Woodrow Ladner reported.

Sills said a professional house mover quoted him a price of $8,000 to move five trailers which would involve approximately three days.

However, Board Attorney Joseph Gex said bid advertisement was necessary before awarding any moving contracts.

The superintendent suggested, "I talked with District Three Supervisor Roger Dale Ladner and he said he had a 'low boy' trailer to help us move the buildings."

Sills said that Harrison County Supervisor Hugh Snowden might also lend a low boy trailer to the district to move the portable classrooms.

"We could move two classrooms per day," Sills stated.

Woodrow Ladner suggested, "Let's borrow a low boy and try to move them ourselves."

Sills said, "If we need some trailers at Lakeshore or Pearlington schools, we might also look into this too."

Woodrow Ladner reported a house mover informed him the buildings could be easily moved without professional assistance.

Sills suggested, "Why not hire some additional people to assist our personnel with the move?"

Gex reinforced Sills suggestion and said it was legal to hire additional manpower at an hourly wage without going through bidding procedures.

bodily harm," Marsh said Friday.

The school was placed on probation by Dr. Walsh and the five-member District Eight Executive Committee.

HNC Head Football Coach Irvin Favre said he is "very disappointed" about the ruling by the executive committee.

"I don't know how many bowl games will be conducted after Nov. 23. The Shrimp Bowl is Nov. 30, but there are not many others," Favre said Friday afternoon.

"This will hurt us financially, as we could have made $1,500 at a bowl game. I just cannot understand why all the sports have to suffer because of what the baseball team did," he continued.

"I feel as if the football and basketball programs have been slapped in the face for something which happened during baseball season, and the ruling is not even going to effect the baseball season. We lose all over the place," Favre added.

"What further hurts us financially is the fact that our first game, which is at home against Our Lady of Victories, has been cancelled because OLV has not mustered enough players to form a team," the head coach said.

Basketball Head Coach Roland Ladner said he will have to revamp his schedule to fill in two major tournaments which were scheduled before expiration of the probation.

"We had a March of Dimes Tournament in Biloxi and an invitational tournament in Ft. Walton Beach, Florida. We had to withdraw from both of these," Ladner said.

"This also gives the sports program as a whole a bad reputation," he added.

HNC Principal Donald Hillman said the probationary period is "serious," adding fans and students must be careful of their conduct at games or the sports program could be suspended for the remainder of the year.

"We suffer financially, but this doesn't cause us to forfeit any games," Hillman said Friday.

"We explored all avenues for appeal, but there is no way to appeal. We were in direct violation of the rules," he continued.

"It is going to hurt us to an extent, but other than bowl games, it will not effect either of the teams' regular season play," Hillman explained.

"The fans and students must be extremely careful from now to Nov. 23. We are in a precarious position, and any trouble from fans or students could cause a suspension of our sports program for the entire school year," Hillman said.

"We can still participate in games and state tournaments," he added.

the fact that I have been issued a license for three years."

Judge Stewart, in refusing to accept Marquar's statement, said the paper is "wholly insufficient in law."

An answer from the Secretary of state's office to a letter from Haas requesting information on incorporation of the Ray Spinks Company and Super Star Enterprises Corporation indicated no record of those corporations exists in Jackson.

The reply to Haas said, "After a diligent search of the corporate records in this office, both foreign and domestic, I have been unable to find where corporations by the above names have qualified to do business in the State of Mississippi."

"Likewise, I have been unable to find where such corporations have filed in this office the designation and appointment of a registered agent for process."

The local junk car dealers are in violation of federal and state law, according to Haas.

The "Junkyard Control Law" is composed of Public Law 89-225, 89th Congress, as amended; the Highway Beautification Act and Section 49-25-1 and following; and Mississippi Code, 1972.

Marquar received a letter in March, 1979 from Wendell Whiddon, district permit inspector for the State Highway Department, stating Marquar's operation was in violation of state and federal law. Spinks received a letter in September, 1978 citing the same violations.

Also in his decree Friday, Stewart ordered the Hancock County sheriff "...to remove, sell, or give away all vehicles, parts thereof, within 1,000 feet of US-90 not removed in 60 days at the cost of Super Star," with any additional costs to be recovered against the personal assets of Marquar and Spinks.

Sheriff Ronald Peterson reported Saturday, "If the vehicles are not removed according to the judge's decree, I will take immediate action in moving them."

"I have received numerous complaints about the vehicles in the past. Judge Stewart's order is very clear," Peterson commented.

Haas reported the State Highway Department, which has responsibility for enforcing the Junkyard Control Law, intends to move against any illegal junk yards.

Complaints which resulted in Friday's ruling were handled through Attorney General Bill Allain office by Frank E. Shanahan Jr., assistant attorney general for the highway department.

Ever since the days of the Garden of Eden, apples have been part of our legend, our history and our lives.

The first settlers of our country made sure that apple seeds were part of their precious hoard when they set out for the New World, there to plant their apple trees.

And remember Johnny Appleseed (John Chapman) who wandered through the early Midwestern wilderness, planting apple tree seeds, along with his sermons!

There are so many varieties of apples that it's sometimes difficult to decide one's favorite - I like 'em all, in just about all ways. Apple Pie, of course, is a cornerstone of American Cooking (as long as the crust doesn't resemble a stone) - along with apple dumplings and such.

And what is tastier than a crisp, tart apple eaten in-between bites of sharp cheese? Or sauteed apple slices ringing a crisp-crustied loin of pork. Or... we could go on and on.

Apple desserts are legion 'round the world. A favorite at our house is Apple Crumb

Cake, an old, old standby for generations in the family - and easily made.

Here's:
APPLE CRUMB CAKE
1 cup sugar
1 cup flour
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 small egg
6 large apples, sliced
One third cup melted margarine
Cinnamon, sugar
Sift together the sugar, flour, salt and baking powder. Add the egg, unbeaten, and mix with your hands till it is like coarse meal.

Line the bottom of a pan (9 by 13) with the sliced apples. Sprinkle with the flour mixture, then drizzle the melted margarine over the whole, then sprinkle with sugar and cinnamon, mixed together, according to your taste.

Bake for about an hour in a 350 degree oven. If you're feeling extra-sinfully hungry for: sweet, plo' a scoop of vanilla ice cream atop, or pour sweet cream over - and enjoy.

CYO tells summer activities, extends membership invitation

By CHRIS LONGO
CYO Publicist

Our Lady of The Gulf Catholic Youth Organization in Bay St. Louis has maintained an active schedule through the summer, including most recently a Sunday outing August 17 to Ponchartrain Beach in New Orleans.

Still to come on the group's agenda are swimming party, cemetery clean-up, Hawaiian dance at Pass Christian Yacht Club and a horseback riding outing.

On the morning of August 9, the CYO helped move school books and desks at the Bay Catholic-OLA schools.

A going away party was held that evening for Bill Hand, a junior advisor, at the home of one of the members.

On August 7, the OLG-CYO met with the Sacred Heart CYO at the Wave Pool in Waveland.

The CYO had a picnic-canoing outing at McLeod Park on July 27 and another canoe trip on August 3.

During the week of July 19-26, members helped at the Saltillo Mission in Mexico.

On July 18, St. Al's CYO of Ocean Springs staged a dance with OLG members attending. July 18 was also a winning day for the CYO. Their softball team was in a tournament, and they brought home the first place title and a trophy.

The weekend of July 11-13 was a busy one for the CYO, for this was the weekend of the OLG church fair. The CYO ran both the soft drink and dunking booths.

July 1 held fun times for everyone! OLG picked up Long Beach CYO and went bowling at Triangle Lanes in Gulfport.

On June 24, the group went to the Lake Forest Shopping Mall in New Orleans. Some members went to the movies, while others went ice skating or shopping.

June 10 was a night for enjoyment when the CYO traveled to Gulfport where they viewed the movie, "In Search of Historic Jesus."

Another dance was held June 21 by OLG-CYO. McDuff provided the music.

May 30 and 31 was a big day and night for the CYO. They held a dance marathon in which half the proceeds went to Muscular Dystrophy. McDuff Productions again provided the music until midnight.

The OLG-CYO invites students in ninth grade and up to come to meetings. The group always welcomes visitors and is looking for new members.

Meetings are on Wednesdays at 7:30 p.m. at the OLG CYO room.

There's an Answer!

Pregnant and pitted
Q. I recently became pregnant with our fourth child. My husband and I wanted four children and we planned this baby. The typical reaction I have been hearing is, "Oh, you poor thing!"

My husband loves me and we love our children dearly, but right now I am so depressed I can hardly get out of bed in the morning. Is there anyone in the world who appreciates a woman who chooses to stay at home and raise children?

A. Yes, we do. Your choice of raising a wonderful, healthy family is the greatest career of all. Add to that the role of a wife and homemaker and you are doing one of the most rewarding jobs on earth. Be proud of your decision. Start each morning with a prayer of thanksgiving for all you are about to do that day and "rejoice and be glad in it."

We are sending you our booklet, How to Have a Good Day Every Day, which may be of help to you. Anyone wishing a free copy may write to us at Box 500, Pawling, N. Y. 12564.

Always in trouble
Q. Our 21-year-old son hasn't listened to us since his second year in high school. As parents we have done everything trying to help him. He went out on his own for four months.

But he got picked up several times for drunken driving and was in all kinds of financial trouble. So we took him back home. Now he comes in and goes out and never speaks to us. Each year I think it's the stage he's in or the company he's with, hoping for signs of improvement. What can we do?

A. The first thing is to stop doing everything for him. He's an adult now, and he should be on his own. Firmly but lovingly tell him he'll have to make his own way.

Assure him you care and are emotionally supportive, but stop taking over at the first sign of any trouble. Of course, he'll make mistakes along the way. But he'll be learning and will be faced with the need to mature and take responsibility as you have been hoping.

Pulpit Points

BY DR. L.S.
WALKER

EVEN KING DAVID, "a man after God's own heart," as have men in every age, experienced fear. But he also knew the antidote for fear. "The Lord is my light and my salvation," he cried, "whom shall I fear? The Lord is the strength of my life; of whom shall I be afraid?" - Ps. 27:1-5.

Life is often full of fears. From children who are terrified in the dark to adults who shudder at the thought of a sudden devastating nuclear bomb blast, a lashing tornado, or some dreaded disease, the paralyzing grip of this powerful emotion lays its iron hand upon the trembling hearts of old and young alike.

A certain kind of fear serves a healthy purpose if it alerts us to real dangers and helps us to avoid them. But fear often becomes overwhelming even in the lives of Christians.

When this happens, worry and nervous exhaustion can make us psychic cripples and spiritual dwarfs.

In a similar experience, David said: "From the end of the earth will I cry unto thee, when my heart is overwhelmed: lead me to the rock that is higher than I" - Ps. 61:2.

What then, is the antidote for the spiritual disease of needless anxiety? The Holy Scriptures gives us a simple and effective prescription by telling us to put our faith in the loving care of our Heavenly Father, who avers all evil or turns it to our profit.

This is the perfect shield for the soul against the panic that so quickly grips our hearts in this distressing and bewildering world. The cry of hope expressed in Psalms 56:3 is a blessed fortress of defense: "When I am afraid, I will trust in thee!"

On one occasion when a mighty wind on the Sea of Galilee threatened the very lives of His disciples (at least, they thought so), Jesus came walking on the turbulent waters toward them, saying, "It is I; be not afraid." It is out of the storms of life that God so often speaks to us. In such times we should listen for the "voice" of God.

The prophet Isaiah, having experienced this truth, declared: "Thou wilt keep him in perfect peace, whose mind is stayed on thee" - Isa. 26:3.

If we find our support in God and His promises, we will be calm amid the storms of life. When we are frantic, fearful and filled with doubt, we are not fully trusting the Lord.

Biloxi Catholics plan schools consolidation

Most Reverend Joseph Lawson Howze, bishop of the Diocese of Biloxi, reports plans for the 1980-1981 school year will not be affected by a feasibility study of union between Notre Dame and Sacred Heart Schools in Biloxi.

Any steps which might result from the study will not affect the schools until the 1981-82 academic year, the bishop said.

"The study has been a detailed and thorough one, which is now ready to enter its final phase. We are now ready to consult the public - both through materials to be sent through the mails to 3,500 people and through public meetings to be held for those who wish to express themselves vocally," the bishop stated.

The Notre Dame - Sacred Heart School Board will receive all the facts and opinions, make a final review of three possible plans and offer their recommendation to me," he added.

The schedule, which was outlined by the bishop, involves the public phase which begins the week of August 24. By Monday, August 25, he stated that 3,500 members of the school-related community will receive mailed materials explaining the three options for the future of the schools and soliciting their opinions through a questionnaire form and return envelope.

On Wednesday, September 3 at 7:30 p.m., a public hearing will be held in Royal d'Iberville Hotel.

A second public hearing will take place the following evening, September 4 at the same time and place.

Those attending these hearing will have an opportunity to express their views vocally and have them reviewed by the school board.

September 10 a day-long meeting of the Notre Dame-Sacred Heart School Board will be held to formulate a recommendation concerning the future of the schools.

The meeting will be at the Royal d'Iberville Hotel.

Bishop Howze said he will receive their recommendations and will announce his decision on Tuesday, September 30.

What Are Air Pollutants?

There are five main air pollutants, says the American Lung Association, the Christmas Seal organization, which is sponsoring Clean Air Week, May 4-10.

Sulfur dioxide comes from power plants and industrial furnaces.

Carbon monoxide comes from motor vehicles. Nitrogen dioxide is formed mainly by industrial furnaces and motor vehicles. Photochemical oxidant is caused by the sun's action on vehicle exhaust.

Particulates come from power plants, industrial processes and motor vehicles.

SAUTEED ZUCCHINI A LA WORCESTER

Yes, Virginia, there is another recipe for zucchini! And a delicious one. The zucchini is quickly sauteed with other diced vegetables, and flavored with a tablespoon of the original Worcestershire—the all-in-one seasoner. Good served hot as a side dish or as a vegetable salad at room temperature.

ZUCCHINI SAUTE

3 tablespoons oil

1½ pounds zucchini, diced

½ cup chopped onion

1 clove garlic, crushed

1 cup diced tomatoes

1 tablespoon Lea & Perrins Worcestershire Sauce

1 teaspoon salt

In a large skillet heat oil. Add zucchini, onion and garlic; saute for 3 minutes, stirring carefully. Combine and add remaining ingredients. Simmer, covered, until vegetables are tender, about 15 minutes, stirring occasionally.

YIELD: 6 portions.

In today's economy, the wise shopper carefully measures the value of every purchase.

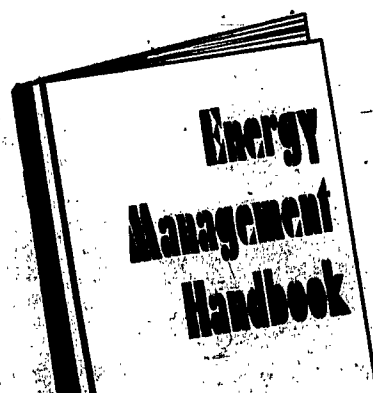

Mississippi Power Company urges you to exercise the same care in buying electricity that you use when shopping in the supermarket.

Just as food scales weigh how many pounds of fruit or vegetables you purchase, the electric meter accurately measures the number of kilowatt-hours you use.

Everytime you switch on an appliance or the thermostat turns it on, our power plants burn more fuel and produce additional electricity which flows to that appliance and makes it operate. The exact number of kilowatt-hours you buy is measured by your electric meter, and your next bill includes the cost of that electricity.

During these hot, humid summer days, our typical residential customer buys twice as many kilowatt-hours as in April, primarily because of air conditioning. Now is a good time to begin reading your electric meter because, unlike most other purchases, you pay for electricity after you use it.

Mississippi Power Company's newly revised "Energy Management Handbook" can help you conserve energy and save money on your electric service bill. Pick up your free copy at any Mississippi Power Company office.

DIONNE QUINTS

"The Dionne Quints," a 90-minute documentary telling the tragic story of the most famous babies ever born, will be rebroadcast at 8 p.m. Monday, August 25, on the Mississippi ETV Network. In a decade of war and economic misery—the 1930's—five identical baby girls were born to Elzire and Oliva Dionne in a tiny northern Ontario town. During the first few years of their lives, they attracted more than three million visitors, became a $500 million asset to the province and came to symbolize the hopes and dreams of an era. Rare newsreel footage, still photos, clips from feature films and interviews with eyewitness observers have been woven together by Donald Brittain to bring to life a human drama in which promoters, government officials, Hollywood moguls and advertising agencies exploited the innocence of a simple country farmer and his five children. The doctor who brought them into the world gained control of their lives shortly after their birth, and they were placed on daily public display to appease the curiosity of millions of gawking visitors. Their parents had no access to them except for scheduled visits. Eventually the doctor lost control of the situation, and Papa Dionne regained the right to rear his own children. The girls eventually moved away from the family to an apartment in Montreal. Two died tragically. The surviving three now live in self-imposed isolation near Montreal, far removed from their parents and a world for which they were ill-prepared.
